- Provide appropriate guidance and advice to children to perform better
- Combat Malnutrition

DETAILS

Children who benefited from the programs of Each One Teach One took on the responsibility of tutoring another child. The team of volunteers at the organization included part time teachers for extra-coaching, centre-in-charge and social worker. It also included a team of experts and psycho-educationists. Regular meetings with the staff helped in taking stock of the situation and making appropriate changes.

Parents and community were also involved at regular intervals. The ex-students after completing their education still continue to be associated with the project. Some of them contribute financially to the organization by becoming sponsors whereas some work as volunteers for the program and activities of Each One Teach One while completing their further education. Ex-students Association coordinates with all the ex-students and organizes various development programs and input sessions for all the ex-students.
